

Participation

Sport has become a world language, a common denominator that breaks down all the walls, all the barriers. It is a worldwide industry whose practices can have widespread impact. Most of all, it is a powerful tool for progress and for development.¹

Communities and Crisis – Inclusive Development through Sport

22–28 October 2014, Rheinsberg, Germany

ICSSPE's hands-on seminar on sport and physical activity for psycho-social interventions in crisis areas

To ensure the success of sport-for-development programmes, implementers must possess substantial thematic and cultural knowledge as well as relevant didactic skills. The 7th edition of »Communities and Crisis« offers a training package to enable participants to deliver psycho-social support programmes in social problem and crisis areas.

As part of our efforts to empower the area of sport for development, and to support young persons interested in the development of sport-for-development programmes, ICSSPE, in collaboration with its partners Kennesaw State University (USA) and Katholieke Universiteit Leuven (Belgium), provides a very special learning experience. The seminar offers not only practical and theoretical learning sessions, but also aims at fostering exchange of ideas and best practice examples between participants and speakers.

International experts from the fields of sociology, psychology, social work and physical activity/education deliver this hands-on training programme, primarily aiming at first-line service providers and graduate students with various disciplinary backgrounds from around the world.

Learning Objectives

The seminar offers didactic and experiential learning opportunities in the following subject areas:

- Psychological aspects of trauma and trauma relief
- The usage of sport, physical activity and play in community building and disaster relief
- Development of adapted and inclusive physical activity programmes
- Gender equality and gender issues in social problem areas
- Child protection, inclusion of children and youth
- Sustainability of sport-for-development programmes and social entrepreneurship
- Monitoring and evaluation
- Job opportunities

[...] sport gave me something else that was extremely important to a refugee from a war-torn country. Sport gave me hope. I want to commend the IOC and the UN for using sport to bring hope to refugee camps and peace to regions plagued by violence. I know that these efforts are making a difference.²

Meb Keflezighi, Silver medallist at the 2004 Athens Olympic Games and the winner of the Boston Marathon 2014

The seminar will take place at HausRheinsberg Hotel am See, in Rheinsberg, Germany. Situated about 90 km outside of Berlin, HausRheinsberg is designed for patrons with disabilities.

With full conference services and a modern and fully-equipped gymnasium, the hotel provides the perfect setting for both theoretical and hands-on learning sessions. In addition, amenities such as an accessible swimming pool, sauna, fitness room and other facilities allow for relaxation and leisure-time activities.

All meals will be in buffet style, allowing participants to enjoy regional specialties as well as international cuisine according to taste.

Additional information about HausRheinsberg may be obtained from the hotel website at www.hausrheinsberg.de/eng.
