INVITATION TO ATTEND

HON. ROD WELFORD MP
Minister for Education,
Training and the Arts

I take great pleasure in inviting you to visit Brisbane, Queensland to attend the 26th ACHPER International Conference.

The comprehensive conference program is designed to meet the diverse needs of those who work within our education systems.

It offers an opportunity for those in the business of health and physical education to develop essential networks and to stay up to date with the latest research, curriculum development, technology and education practices.

In 2008, I launched the Smart Moves policy in Queensland state schools. It is about increasing student participation in physical activity and improving the quality of that activity.

It is widely recognised that physical activity is essential for good health and wellbeing, enhances students' educational outcomes, supports their personal development and promotes lifelong active lifestyles.

I am certain there will be much discussion at the conference about new and creative ways to help all students stay active and healthy.

For those who have never visited Queensland, it's also an opportunity to enjoy a range of tours that showcase the best of Brisbane and the surrounding areas.

I encourage you to attend the 26th ACHPER International Conference and look forward to your company for what promises to be an uplifting professional development opportunity.

MAJOR SPONSOR

The Queensland Department of Education, Training and the Arts (DETA) has been an enduring supporter of ACHPER QLD and is proud to be the major sponsor of the 26th ACHPER International Conference.

DETA's ongoing commitment to promoting the health and wellbeing of Queensland's young people is demonstrated through the Queensland Government's Eat Well Be Active initiatives such as Smart Moves and Smart Choices. These programs reflect international best practice and are closely aligned with the Conference's theme, Creating Active Futures.

As advocates for good health, it is hoped that this conference will continue to inspire you to create active futures for all citizens.

INDUSTRY EXHIBITION

The ACHPER 2009 exhibition will be an integral part of the conference. Exhibitors will provide the latest information with regards to the Health and Physical Education industry.

The exhibition will be located in the foyer of F Block, at QUT's Kelvin Grove Campus. To acknowledge the importance of the exhibition, the conference program has been structured to ensure delegates have ample time to visit the exhibition area. Daily morning and afternoon teas and lunches will be held in this area.

Organisations interested in participating in the exhibition should contact the event manager, Amy Piekkala-Fletcher, on telephone +61 7 3138 9358 or email amy.piekkalafletcher@qut.edu.au.

PROGRAM STREAM

The 2009 ACHPER International Conference Committee invites submissions for oral, practical, symposium or poster presentations. You should indicate with which of the conference streams (listed below) your abstract/poster aligns. Oral presentations will be allocated 20 minutes in concurrent sessions. The Program Committee reserves the right to decide the format of presentations and in which streams they will be presented. This decision will be based on content assessment, time and space available. The venue will be QUT Kelvin Grove Campus, Brisbane, Australia.

KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

SARA ASHWORTH

Dr. Sara Ashworth is currently director of the Spectrum Institute for Teaching and Learning. After 40 years of teaching and consulting in various academic arenas, Dr. Ashworth is retiring from Florida Atlantic University after 20 years to devote time to the Spectrum Institute.

The Spectrum (articulated by Muska Mosston in 1966) is an internationally recognized theory that delineates a framework that underlies all teaching and learning options, shows the relative relationships and contributions among alternative teaching-learning behaviours, and provides a functional and foundational language for approaching pedagogical issues. For 25 years Drs. Ashworth and Mosston worked together to refine, expand, research, and implement in various school settings the Spectrum of Teaching Styles. National and international recognition has been given to the Spectrum.

TIMOTHY HOPPER

Dr Hopper's research interests center on qualitative research methodologies focused on teacher education and physical education. His recent work is on program-wide electronic portfolio development and understanding the complexities of learning to teach from situated learning experiences.

Dr Hopper has conducted workshops on Teaching Games for Understanding (TGfU) in England, Canada and Hong Kong. He is a co-editor of the next TGfU book to be published from conference papers presented at the 4th International TGfU conference held at UBC in 2008. He has published articles on TGfU, creative dance and innovations in teacher education. Working with his student teachers, he has created a continuously expanding website of TGfU and creative dance units of instruction.

DUARTE ARAUJO

Duarte Araújo - Sport Psychologist at Faculty of Human Kinetics – Technical University of Lisbon, Portugal. He teaches sport psychology to sport sciences students (physical educators, coaches, sport managers and fitness instructors). He regularly conducts psychological evaluations oriented to performance enhancement to high-level athletes of different sports.

His research involves the study of expert decision-making in sport, which led to him receiving awards at the European College of Sport Science in 2001 and at the Association des Chercheurs en Activités Physiques et Sportives (ACAPS) in 2002.

His special interest is in applying his research to training and to collaborate with coaches in this application. He is a consultant for many coaches in many sports, essentially about the training of decision-making skill in sports. He organized the contents of the coaches' courses on behavioural sciences/ sport psychology in three of the main Portuguese Sport Federations: Soccer, Sailing and Golf.

20TH FRITZ DURAS MEMORIAL LECTURE

Dr. Fritz Duras has been justly called the father of Australian Physical Education. In 1936 whilst in England he was invited by Sir Raymond Priestly, then Vice Chancellor, to launch a Physical Education course in the University of Melbourne. From 1937 to 1939 he held a Carnegie lectureship in physical education and his impact was such that the University sought and obtained his services as permanent Director of Physical Education. This was the first such course to be introduced into an Australian university. From the outset he understood physical education to be a discipline that could give scope for full personal development in the best traditions of university education.

He excelled in any intellectual or physical pursuit to which he set his mind. He was an Olympic class ski jumper. Above all, Fritz Duras was an extremely kind man, deeply interested in people and their problems, never too busy, or too tired to be at the disposal of those who sought his help.

The 26th ACHPER International Conference is proud to host this year's Fritz Duras Memorial Lecture, which will take place on the evening of the 7th of July. The lecture is included in conference registration.
